GUIDELINES FOR YOGA TEACHER TRAINING

To ensure that we all get the best possible experience together during the next coming months we have put together a few guidelines that are there to support a positive and safe learning environment.

Self-care

Embarking on a yoga teacher training is an exciting journey. Our teacher training is a place for learning, exploration and personal growth and we encourage you to keep an open mind and a brave heart throughout your learning experience. We ask that you respect your body and your 'self' during the course of the training and do not push yourself beyond what you consider safe and healthy. A challenge is always welcome, however, knowing when to draw your personal boundaries is just as important. The weekends are intense so please make sure to get plenty of rest, keep a good diet, (moderate alcohol intake etc.) take a hot bath/shower and give yourself some downtime so you can arrive to the sessions feeling refreshed. Remember to take everything in your own pace and give your learning process the time it needs.

Respect

Time is valuable so please make sure to arrive at least 10 minutes prior to starting time, first thing in the morning and also after your lunch break. The studio opens 15 minutes before the day starts. Students who are late to class may be asked to wait until the initial session has finished (e.g. if the day starts with a 30-minute meditation and a student arrives 10 minutes late, they will be allowed in once the meditation is complete).

Respecting and honouring the space and privacy of others is an important aspect in order for us to build trust within the group. Any sensitive and personal information that may be shared within the group at any point is not to be shared or discussed with other people. You can always communicate with one of the teachers if there is a need to express something.

Make sure you arrive prepared with the necessary equipment that you will need during the weekend, i.e. pen, journal, books, manual etc.

Grounding

Please leave the chatter outside the studio. The studio serves as a peaceful and calm haven. When you arrive first thing in the morning or after your lunch break, please arrive in silence to give yourself the opportunity to settle in and relax onto your mat. Phones are only to be used during the break and outside the studio premises.

Practice & Integration

In between weekends we encourage you to consolidate your learning to help you digest all the new information and make it your own. This training is not supposed to be another "thing-to-do" in your everyday live, however sometimes things do get a bit cramped! In order to avoid any unnecessary stress please do your best to give yourself the time you need for homework, reflection and practice. If possible, we also suggest that you take one class a week with Eleonora Ramsby Herrera.
